Dr. Kennedy ... relaxes with pipe.

Dr. Kennedy Appointed As Dean Of Education

By Bob Erxleben

"I played football at Fort Hays. Two years as guard, two as quarterback. I lettered all four years, but didn't set any records or reap any honors ... I left that for Mike."

And Mike carried the burden and the ball well.

The records were set, the honors were reaped. And Dr. Paul Carsten Kennedy was on hand to root for "Big Red" and his son Mike.

He puffed reflectively on his pipe for a moment. Then, his thoughts returned to the interview that was taking place, and the subject at hand — the transition from head of the Department of Secondary Education to Dean of the College of Education.

Replaces Gorman

Dr. Kennedy has been named to replace Frank Gorman as Dean of the College of Education. Gorman will retire August 31; Dr. Kennedy takes over September 1.

The Kansas-born educator came to the University of Omaha in 1955 in the capacity of acting department head. And he continued to "act" as department head until the appointment became permanent some three years later.

"In addition to being acting department head, I taught the methods courses and, until two years ago, handled the student teaching programs," Kennedy said.

"As head of the Department of Secondary Education, my duties were numerous, but, I had two prime functions. One was the administration of preparatory programs for high school teaching. The other was co-ordinating with other schools in designing our programs."

New Duties

With the new job come new duties. The duties are broader, more encompassing.

"I'll be working more with the University Teacher Education Committee," Kennedy explained. "Instead of dealing with an individual department, I'll be working with the personnel and the problems of the entire college."

And there will be problems. Kennedy said as much.

"Our problems are largely financial," Kennedy said. "Some sort of state aid is necessary. It is imperative that we find a broader base for our income."

Merger Best Choice

He elaborated, "Merger seems the logical choice. Working out a satisfactory agreement with the administration of Nebraska University seems to prevent fewer problems than running this institution on its current income and a levy of two mills. The future of OU is tremendous if we can continue to run it. But you just can't expect the students to pay three times the tuition they would elsewhere."

Seemingly confident the merger will take place, he added, "I hope to be able to make a contribution to working out the agreement between the two universities."

He probably will. He seems capable of accomplishing most anything he sets his mind to, as evidenced by his record of achievements since his birth 46 years ago in Browntown, Kansas.

Browntown and Oil Hill, Kansas, where he spent his early boyhood, are no more. They were oilfield towns that dried up when the oil did.

Tuition Limits Student Growth

"OU is not enjoying the same five to 10 per cent enrollment growth as comparable universities are," stated Virgil Sharpe, and the reason seems to be the tuition rate.

Spring enrollment of 7,490 students dropped 990 from fall's enrollment of 8,480, a decrease of 20 per cent.

According to the registration figures, the largest drop in any class came in the freshman class. That enrollment dropped from 2,563 last fall to the present 2,030, a 21 per cent decrease.

The only class to increase this semester is the senior class which gained 121 students and now numbers 1,404, compared to 1,283 in the fall.

Sharpe, while stating spring enrollment is greater than he expected, expressed concern over the declining statistics.

In the spring semester of last year, a total of 7,805 students were enrolled. This semester the figure has decreased 315 to

"The Viet Nam war accounts for the approximate 20 per cent in Bootstrapper registration," said Sharpe, but the higher tuition is causing the greatest decline.

Sharpe went on to say OU is staying about the same each year, and "we should be growing at a steady rate."

The Gateway

Vol. XLVI OMAHA, NEBRASKA, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1967 Number 20

LB 490 Favorably Received

The junior college bill (LB490) was moved out of the Education Committee of the Nebraska Legislature by a 6-1 vote Tuesday.

"The bill provides that the University of Omaha and that the junior colleges would receive $10 for each hour carried by all Nebraska students who have completed less than 60 hours of college work."

"It is estimated that the University would receive approximately $800,000," Naylor added.

Originally, Dr. Naylor had thought OU would receive somewhere between $500,000 to $750,000. "That was when we thought the bill would include only $100 per student" he said.

Currently the bill is worded to include summer sessions for municipal universities of which OU is the only one in the State.

If the bill is voted out of committee and passed with 33 of the senators voting for it, it can become effective immediately, which could possibly mean some additional revenue for the University of Omaha prior to the close of the current fiscal year (summer session)," said the acting president.

Dr. Naylor and various college and state education officials testified to the committee. "There was no opposition to the bill whatsoever," he repeated.

Election Changed To Mar. 15

By Lothar A. Luken

March 15 is now the date for the special Student Council election to replace three of its former members, according to Council president Jim Butler.

The election, originally scheduled for this week, has been postponed because "The Gateway has brought it to our attention that the election has not been properly publicized," stated Butler.

His remark was in reference to a front-page editorial last week in which The Gateway "promised to contest the results" if the election were held because students were not informed of it.

Before the meeting, Butler said it would be senseless to "bicker" over the technicalities involved, and that "perhaps the students were not properly informed."

The Mar. 15 election will also decide the Junior Prom Queen in addition to the Council vacancies created when sophomores Toni Westphalen, Sue Goepper and freshmen Bob Gilmore did not re-enroll this semester.

Unfair to Appoint

At the meeting, Independent Sandy Friedman asked "Why not appoint replacements since the semester will be half over anyway by the time of the election?" He was told by Butler this could be done, but it "would not be fair to the independents." All three ex-members were Greek affiliated.

The Council also approved a proposal to allow fund-raising activities by campus groups under guidelines which had not previously existed. The proposal came from the Student Activities Committee (S.A.C.).

Among the "safeguards" is one which stipulates that fund-raising may only be conducted on campus. This came under severe questioning, but was finally resolved when Butler stated these "safeguards" are not hard-fast rules.

No 'Hand-Outs'

Under the proposal, such activities will be reviewed and approved by the Council and S.A.C. after the organization's petition is presented to the Dean of Students, who had previously handled such matters alone.

Dean Donald Pflasterer stated at the meeting the "on-campus" rule is designed to prevent groups from going to the community for "hand-outs", but does not rule out holding such activities off campus if no mon-

OU To Hold Parent Talks

Parents of students at the University of Omaha will be brought up to date on the proposed NU-OU merger on a first-hand basis during the next three weeks.

Dr. Kirk E. Naylor, acting president of OU, announced plans this week for a series of "briefings" for the parents of students. The sessions will be held on campus Tuesday, February 28; Wednesday, March 8 and Thursday, March 16.

All of the meetings will be held at 7:30 p.m. in Room 101 of the Engineering Building.

"We want to tell them on a person-to-person basis just what the future plans of the University are. They are entitled to know how the merger will affect educational program tuition, fees, credits and similar things which play major roles in the collegiate lives of their young men and women," Dr. Naylor said.

"We have been very pleased with the response and reaction to the merger proposal."

Several organizations have gone on record endorsing the merger. They include the Omaha Board of Education, the Omaha Education Association, the directors of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce, the education committee of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce, the Professional Engineers of Nebraska and the Omaha University Alumni Association Council.

Coed of the Week

Eyes Bright

The Gateway salutes Coed of the Week Sheila Eyberg, who smilingly returns the salute. The 22-year-old senior was voted honorary major at the 1966 Military Ball. She is a psychology major serving as the chief lab assistant in the tongue-twisting psychophysiology lab. By the way, Sheila has a 3.64 average.

Editorially Speaking

Team Scoring Soaring

The basketball team is having its best season in 12 years. Attendance is soaring. Just last Tuesday, 3,400 fans saw OU knockoff CIC-leader Washburn.

Tomorrow the 1966-67 Indian cagers meet tough rival St. Benedict's in the last home game.

The Student Council is giving away two clock radios and a $25 gift certificate as additional incentive for attending. The clock radio they give may be your own.

However, don't let giveaways detract from a fine team and coaches. Whether you get a radio or your organization a gift certificate, the team will still be worth coming to see.

G.E. Team Loses, But...

Three seniors and one sophomore traveled to New York City last weekend. Of course, they were the OU varsity scholars in the G. E. College Bowl.

Captain Jerry Webster, Marcia Cohen, Craig Reisser and Gary Johnson lost to Texas University. Texas tripled OU's 125 points.

"I was very proud of them. I was also proud of their graciousness," remarked OU Coach Dr. Donald Manson about his foursome.

Manson stressed that the College Bowl match is a game. This is important to remember. The contest was not a life and death struggle.

The College Bowl is designed for fun. "It was enjoyable and profitable for all concerned," said the coach.

The team had fun (which they will relate in next week's Gateway), the coach enjoyed himself, OU received $500 and about eight million television viewers were entertained.

True, it would have enhanced the fun had the team won; but as Manson remarked, "It was enjoyable and profitable for all concerned." This observation would probably be shared by all those persons who assisted the team.

Kennedy Appointed Dean

But the stocky Norwegian-Irishman was no stranger to the oilfields.

"I've been accused of having a Scotch-Irish-Norwegian-Kansas-oil-field accent," Kennedy laughed.

Before earning his Bachelor of Science degree from Fort Hays Kansas State College in 1942, he worked in the oilfields at various jobs.

"I was a roustabout, a roughneck, a swamper... I was anything they happened to need at the time," Kennedy chuckled.

"When I gave up a $250-a-month job in the oilfields to take a $125-a-month teaching job, people said I was crazy. A lot of people still think that of educators."

War Interrupts

Then came the war. The roughneck-roustabout-swamper-coach-teacher became an infantryman. When his discharge came three years later, the home he returned to was in Oklahoma.

"My wife Martha was living in Oklahoma with her parents," Kennedy explained.

"And that was fine with me," he added. "I figured that if I didn't get back into teaching, I could always get a job in the oilfields."

But he did go back to teaching and he did continue his education. The Kennedys moved back to Kansas. In 1950 Kennedy earned his Master of Science degree from Fort Hays, and in 1955, his Doctor of Education from the University of Kansas.

Dr. Kennedy has been active at OU. His affiliations include membership in Phi Delta Kappa, National Education Association, Nebraska State Education Association and Association for Student Teaching.

He is outgoing president of one organization and president-elect of another.

Relinquishes Office

On April 15 he will relinquish his one-year presidency of the Nebraska Association for Student Teaching. In July, he begins a two-year term as president of the Nebraska Council on Teacher Education.

Dr. Kennedy is also a member of the Athletic Committee, the Committee of the Future and the Administrative and Curriculum Committee of the College of Education.

Letters To The Editor

Fee Answers Sought

To: The Board of Regents of the University of Omaha:

We, the undersigned, being students at the University of Omaha, address this open letter to the members of the University's governing body, the Board of Regents.

While we must make it abundantly clear and evident that we do not question or challenge your right to do so at your prerogative, we must question, nevertheless, the decision made at the February 16 meeting in regards to the proposed general fee of $30 to be assessed against every full-time student each semester he is enrolled at this University.

We question the decision on the following points:

1. no students, either in toto or through the representative body, namely the Student Council, were consulted on this proposal; and as students we feel that we should have the opportunity to be heard regarding any and all proposals directly involving and affecting us;
2. while we repeat that we do not question your right to do so, the latest official University catalog stipulates that tuition and fees may be changed at any time "if such action is deemed necessary"; we, therefore, question the necessity of the general fee;
3. the fee itself is grossly discriminatory to any student who is not enrolled in a course requiring a laboratory session, but yet must pay the full $30, part of which is designated as a general laboratory fee; while at the same time a student whose degree requirements include many laboratory sessions is not paying his fair share;
4. finally, we question the wisdom of instituting such a high-cost fee at a time when our Acting President Dr. Kirk E. Naylor, himself said that tuition is as high as it can possibly go and that students cannot be expected to pay any more than they are already paying.

We, therefore, urge you, the Board of Regents, to consider these points of questioning and to reconsider your action of February 16 until such a time when it can be evident that the $30 general fee is both necessary and fair to all students.

Bowl Team Grateful

Dear Faculty

We would like to extend our kindest thanks and appreciation for all the time and moral encouragement which you offered us.

We would like to thank the selection board: Mr. Richard Lane, Dr. Victor Blackwell, Dr. Cliff Anderberg, Dean Elizabeth Hill, Dr. Paul Beck and Dean Robert Harper. We would also like to thank Dr. Earl Darlstrom, Dr. Ert Gum and Mr. Kermit Peters.

Our most special thanks is extended to Dr. Donald Manson for having the faith and perseverance to tour and stroll the streets of New York with us. Dr. Manson, somehow, had the spirit and control that such an experience required.

He cheered us up, gave selflessly his time and energy and his faithful confidence at all times. The fun, the excitement and hard work were intensified with his spirit of mixing erudition and wit.

Thank you,
 The College Bowl Team

Not Noisy. Just Loud

I wish to defend The Association after the slaughter they took in Clarence Wilson's "review" in the February 17 issue.

I was unable to attend the concert, so I don't know exactly how loud they were, but as a musician myself, I think I may know a few things about it that Wilson might not.

In the first place, I can't believe the entire show amounted to "noise". Even Wilson described the Association as "without a doubt a talented group." From the quality of their recordings and their ability to duplicate their sound "live," I must agree.

I do not believe that "noise" is a correct definition for "loud." Rock n' roll music is by nature loud. It revolves around a strong beat, that, by purpose, is designed to excite the listener, not provide dinner music.

It would be correct to say that the songs sounded similar. It is, however, impossible for them to sound the same. They all have different musical arrangements, chords, rhythms, melody lines, words and harmony.

They sound similar for the following reason: every "Top 40" group that has had recording success is known for one basic sound, and after this sound is established, it is the accepted and expected thing.

The biggest complaint I hear about "rock" concerts are that they are too short. Most groups that are considered to be "stars" will not lower themselves to do an encore.

The Association's encore shows they had a desire to please the audience. Does Wilson really think the audience was impatient for the show to end? That idea, to me, doesn't show much thought.

Last but not least, I thought name calling was limited to kindergarten and politics. Was the show really like being assassinated? Wilson must have lived through it or he never would have been able to write his "review".

Most students I talked to about the concert had very favorable comments.

I think reviews of events should be written by someone who knows something about what's happening.

Around Campus

Grecy Lunch

This summer Omaha University will have an ambassador to Greece. It will be the fifth summer an Omaha U student has been sent abroad as a member of the Experiment in International Living.

Any full-time student interested in applying for the Hitchcock Experiment in International Living should attend the luncheon meeting in alcove D of the Student Center cafeteria. The discussion will be from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. today, and covers all aspects of the program.

The Experiment in International Living Ambassador program at OU is sponsored for the first time by a single outside source, the Hitchcock Foundation. The Hitchcock Experiment will pay 1,000 dollars, which will hopefully cover the costs of keeping the OU diplomat abroad this summer. The chosen representative pays for incidental expenses, such as camera film and inoculations.

A Capital Idea

Seven of OU's Young Republicans will attend the state YR convention, Mar. 3-8 in Lincoln.

The Junior GOP's going to the state capital are John Latenser, Barb Shaw, Maureen Fitzgerald, James Lunday, Barb Montag and Michael Snyder.

Rounding out the list is Judy Houchin, OU's Miss Young Republican.

The three alternates are Charles Deates, Bruce Murphy and Thomas Wintle.

Cash Mc Fall

Applications for scholarships and other financial aid will be available Mar. 1 in the Dean of Student Personnel Office, Ad. 240.

These applications for the fall semester 1967-68 must be returned by May 15, 1967.

This is also the deadline for applying for National Student Defense Loans.

Killian's Reign - Dough

February 28 is the deadline for OU co-eds to enter the 1967 National College Queen Contest. The contest, sponsored this year by Best Foods, selects and honors "the nation's most outstanding college girl." The national winner will receive more than $5,000 in prizes.

All undergraduate co-eds are eligible.

Entry blanks and more information are available in Miss Margaret Killian's office, Ad 101, or write to: National College Queen Contest Committee, P.O. Box 935, New York City, N.Y. 10023.

Free 'Love' In QUampi Room

"The Art of Love" is the title of the Monday QUampi Room movie, beginning at 3 p.m.

The comedy concerns a writer, James Garner, and an artist, Dick Van Dyke, living in Paris. Neither is doing very well until the artist decides to commit suicide. When his note is found and he isn't, the price of his work skyrockets.

The writer rakes in the dough until the artist suddenly reappears. Knowing a good thing when they see it, the artist stays in hiding while the writer periodically "finds" works of the artist.

The plot gets more involved when Janet Leigh appears on the scene. The situation eventually gets straightened out and has the inevitable "happy ending."

Adept Adapters

The Reader's Theatre will present the first of four productions Feb. 28, from 9:00 - 9:15 p.m., on KYNE-TV, Channel 26.

Four students will participate in the program under the supervision of Richard Albin, speech instructor.

The first program will be an adaption of "The Lottery", by Shirley Jackson, presented live under the direction of Gary Nielsen of KYNE-TV.

Future programs presented once each month will include the interpretation of poetry, drama, and poetic drama.

Our Man Chester:

Lab Fees - Pain In The Neck

By Chet McCarthy

"Lab fees have become a thing of the past. They don't work and most universities have abandoned them," said Omaha University Controller Harold Keefover.

So last Friday at the Regents meeting Keefover proposed that lab fees be replaced by a special assessment.

The assessment, which the Regents approved, amounts to eleven dollars for each full time student and six dollars for each part time student.

Starting next semester each full time student will be charged a 30 dollar activities fee instead of the present 19 dollar fee.

OU students seem to have mixed emotions about this new system. Students who major in art, biology, chemistry, education, engineering and physics, to name a few, will certainly benefit.

Under the old system some of the students paid a 12 dollar lab fee for almost every course.

On the other hand students who major in English or history, for example, will also pay 11 dollars a semester whereas in the past it didn't cost them a dime in their major field.

Just A 'Realignment'

"Some students will pay more, others less," stated Keefover. "However the new system won't produce more income. It is not an increase, just a re-alignment."

Keefover told this columnist that last semester lab fees produced an income of about 46,000 dollars.

Although not claiming to be a math specialist, I have tried to determine the amount of income that the new system will produce. According to Harold Keefover it should be equal or close to 46,000 dollars.

Knowing that we had about 4,000 full time students and about 4,000 part time students last semester, I used some simple addition and multiplication. Six dollars for each part time student and 11 dollars for each full time student totals 68,000 dollars or an increase of about 22,000 dollars per semester for the general fund.

If the university merger goes through enrollment will increase, the 11 dollars will remain constant and the percentage of income will grow even larger.

"We think this system is fair," said Keefover. "We just spread it (the assessment) out over the entire student body in an attempt to obtain equity and at the same time eliminate an administrative problem."

Unequal Benefits

What if a new property tax was proposed in Nebraska where each tax payer would be assessed the same. There wouldn't be an increase in the total income but only a realignment.

This would be fine for the man that has property valued at 100,000 dollars, but what about the poor guy whose property is valued at 5,000 dollars. He would probably take the case to court.

I'm not suggesting that OU students hire an attorney but they should be aware of the fact that the advantage of this new system is greater for the administration than for the student who majors in English.

The only equity involved is that each student pays the same. However, each student does not benefit the same. Some will get more for their 11 dollars others will get less.

"You've got a point worth consideration," said Acting President Kirk Naylor.

"We did consider this and believe that every student is the recipient of special devices throughout the semester that would justify the 11 dollar assessment."

Dr. Naylor added that we must do what is best for the "common good."

The new system will eliminate the difficulty of fee assessment and accounting, also it will allow each student to determine his registration fee in advance.

Fees Are A 'Pain'

"In the past these lab fees have been a pain in the neck for the administration," stated Keefover. In the future it might be a pain in the pocketbook for the students.

Lothar Luken, a journalism major, has written a letter to the Board of Regents. This letter, which was signed by several student leaders, asked the Regents to reconsider their action until such a time when it can be evident that the new assessment fee is both necessary and fair to all the students.

It is doubtful that Luken's letter will reverse the Regents' action, but at least they will know that some students are concerned.

"It doesn't make any difference whether they raise tuition or add assessment fees, its spelled the same way — M.O.N.E.Y.," said Luken.

Money is what this university needs and the administration certainly isn't trying to hide that fact.

"Let's face it, any fee is there to produce income," said Keefover.

Players Present 'Acis And Galatea' Other Action By Council

The Omaha premiere of Handel's "Acis and Galatea" will be presented by the Omaha University Opera Theatre March 3 and 4 at Brownell Talbot School and March 14 at the College of St. Mary.

OU's first attempt at a full length opera is under the direction of Dr. Robert Ruetz, associate professor of music. The production, to be sung in English, will not only give music students experience in vocal-dramatic production, but will enable students to hear opera performed by their university.

More Challenging

This makes the opera even more challenging for Dr. Ruetz and Richard Albin, stage designer for the opera. effective," Dr. Ruetz said.

The leading roles will be sung by Sadie Mae Buck as Galatea; William Tobin as Acis; Gregg Loso as Polyphemus; and Nancy Kenny as Damon. Understudies for the four roles are Barbara Johnson, David Hasty, Robert Schroeder, and Betty Ann Burke.

The plot centers around the monster, Polyphemus, who declares his love for the beautiful nymph, Galatea. She repulses him for the love of a young shepherd, Acis. Polyphemus crushes Acis to death under a boulder as revenge. Galatea, in her grief, transforms Acis into a fountain, and the two lovers are eternally reunited.

Baroque Sounds

The instrumentation of the orchestra will be an unusual one. In 1708, when the opera was first produced in Italy, Baroque sounds of the harpsichord, oboe, flute and strings were popular. The music for OU's production will be done with these instruments. The opera orchestra will be composed of 12 members from the OU Town and Gown Orchestra.

Dr. Ruetz is promoting the cause of the Opera Theatre, which he says is "Still in stages of infancy." "It's difficult at this stage because we're scarce of singers," he commented.

Tickets are on sale in the Student Center. Admission is $1.50 and all seats are reserved.

ey is solicited from the general public.

In other action, the Council:

—Appointed Sally Vasel to co-ordinate Council members who will be gathering faculty and student opinions on the proposed OU merger with the University of Nebraska. The information will be used next Friday by the Council officers in a meeting with their NU counterparts.

—Announced the promotional contest for tomorrow's basketball game with St. Benedict's. A $25 gift certificate will be awarded to the group with the highest percentage of members attending, and two clock radios will be given to individual students chosen at random.

This promotion was originally scheduled for last Tuesday but was shelved because of "poor publicity by The Gateway."

—Delayed any further action on a Creighton Student Council proposal for co-ordination of social events between the two universities.

Field Boosts Trip To Greece

Omaha University seems to have become part of the world community.

The Experiment in International Living is the cause of this new awakening, and Mrs. James Field is one of the main causes of the Experiment's existence at OU.

The vivacious lady has the apparent energy to encourage students to visit foreign land with the charm to coax staid boards of cautious men to help finance them.

Enthusiasm ... Spark Plug

Her enthusiasm is obviously the spark plug for many civic and educational organizations. Though she declines any laurels, the pretty matron is the patron saint for the OU ambassador program.

Why does she do it?

"Because I like kids." No pseudo-dedication, no speeches, just an honest interest.

Mrs. Field has been the main fund raiser for the Ambassador program for the past four years. This year she was able to secure $1,000 from the Gilbert Hitchcock Foundation to sponsor this summer's OU representative to Greece.

Candidates Processed

A daughter of Mrs. Field once participated in the exchange when a junior at Central high school. She is now a senior at Smith.

The candidates for the program will be processed by a board of which Mrs. Field will be a member. Then four students are chosen as finalists. Their applications are forwarded to the national Experiment board in Putney, Vermont.

The lucky person who is chosen should know of his good fortune by April 1, no fooling.

ROTC Deadline Is Announced

Deadline for applications in the two-year Air Force ROTC program, here, is March 1, it was announced Thursday.

The Detachment staff said applicants must have 50-75 credit hours and a minimum 2.0 grade point average. ROTC headquarters is located in the Administration building.

Indians Win Both of Double-Header

Vincent Sparks OU Win

Matmen Pin Wayne St.

By John Whisman

A share of the CIC conference title is in the grasp of Jim Borsheims cagers. The Indians dropped Washburn 66-56 in Tuesday's doubleheader to share the lead with the Ichabods.

Washburn sporting a 16-3 record upon invasion, had their image tarnished as the 10-7 Indians avenged an earlier loss to Gordon Stauffers crew.

Jim Vincents hot shooting kept the crowd alive as he netted 23 points to pace all scorers. His sweeping hooks from both the inside and outside drew "ooh and ahhs" from the 3,450 fans.

The bulk of Vincents point total came in the final 20 minutes.

Of Vincents performance, Coach Borsheim said, "He came through with the most crucial performance of his career in the most important game."

Top Five Men

This was the first game of the season that Coach Borsheim has used only five players. At one point, however, it appeared that Steve Kupcho would see action, but Borsheim called him back to the bench.

Usual high point producers Len Todd and Dennis Browne were held to a combined total of 16 points. The slack was carried by the other three starters.

Bill Haas netted 17, Jim Etter dropped 10 and of course Vincents 23 helped guide the Indians to their eleventh victory.

Haas had key baskets in the waning minutes when the contest was still in doubt. Etter kept the defense loose with his accuracy from long range.

Ten Point Spread

The Indians forged deadlocks at 36 and 39 before going ahead to stay with 13:02 remaining.

The final ten point spread was the largest lead held by OU the entire game.

After moving ahead by eight, the Indians ran into the Ichabod press with five minutes remaining.

Washburn closed the eight point gap to four at 56-52 and 58-54 and finally 60-56 with 1:30 remaining.

Bill Haas caught fire in the final minute and iced the victory for the Indians by dropping three quick fielders and record the final victory margin.

Emporia Next

OU's season finale is against Emporia, Tuesday. A victory would clinch at least a tie for the crown.

Washburns final conference game is against Ft. Hays. The Ichabods also need a victory to gain a share of the crown.

One, if not both the Indians and the Ichabods should win their final conference encounters.

Emporia statistically has Haas rebounds.

compiled more points and allowed more points per game than have the Indians.

Emporia has scored at a 77.6 clip and their opponents have netted 71.3 per game.

OU on the other hand has hit at a 61.1 pace and limited opponents a measling 56.0 average per game.

Swim Meet Set

The all men's intramural swimming meet has been set for March 15 at 5 p.m.

Intramural director Bert Kurth notes however that a place has not been selected.

Pikes In Playoff

Pi Kaps and The Team will vie before the varsity game tomorrow to decide the intramural basketball championship.

Pi Kaps defeated the favored Bruins Wednesday in a double overtime 57-55. The Team was thrown into the finals by a 56-48 win over the Beefers.

Intramural director Burt Kurth noted this is the first time in several years a fraternity team has gone into the basketball finals.

Pi Kaps beat The Team earlier in the season 54-45.

Sport Notes

The Student Council is giving away door prizes during tomorrow night's game with St. Benedict's.

Gift certificates will also be given to the organization with the most people attending.

The door prizes were scheduled for distribution during Tuesday's game with Washburn, but council members said they were not given enough publicity.

The door prizes are clock radios.

Contributions Sought

During half-time of the St. Benedict game collections will be sought for the United States Olympic Games at Mexico City.

Olympic lapel pins will be sold for $1.00 and bumper stickers reading "Olympic Fund Contributor" for 50c.

These will be on sale at a special table at the West gate of the Fieldhouse.

Student Manager

OU baseball coach Virgil Yelkin is looking for a student manager for the baseball team.

The position is salaried and anyone interested is urged to contact Yelkin immediately.

Tennis, Golf

Omaha University men interested in playing varsity golf or tennis are urged to attend in the Fieldhouse at 3 p.m., Thursday March 2.

Ken Fischer is coaching the sports.

Kahley Leads Pin-Men

By Ray Kalinski

ROTC captured new high team game and series honors in intramural bowling Feb. 15 at West Lanes.

The reason: Tom Kahley's 702 series.

The consistent foursome, supplemented with Bill Poff, Steve Nelson, and Dick Vinal, fired games of 828, 762, 758 to record the 2348 high.

Kahley, who posted a 742 high last year, believes his bowling progress has stemmed from many people who have influenced him along the way. But in particular states, "My parents first took me bowling when I was 11-years-old and they have been coaching me ever since."

Kahley . . . 702

joring in political science but changed to geography because the Air Force needs geographers more than they need political scientists."

As a freshman Kahley registered in engineering on a Regents scholarship but lost it because of a 2.78 grade average his first semester.

"I've changed my major to something I am interested in and I feel I can get my grades back up," comments Kahley. "I plan to either reapply for the Regents or try for an ROTC scholarship."

Last week he led the scoring for OU's entry in the Association of College Urjans Tournament at Central Missouri State. Last year Tom was a member of the bowling team that brought back first place from the NAIA Tournament at Kansas City.

Also a regular participant in intramural basketball the personable sophomore maintains 3.1 accumulative grade average. He pulled a 3.75 last semester.

When asked if he ever thought about turning pro Tom replied, "If I could ever average a solid 295 for a year I might consider it, until then I'm bowling for fun."

Omaha University matmen boosted their record to 9-2-2 by defeating Wayne State 19-12 before a jubilant crowd Tuesday night.

The Roy Washington, Rich Gray battle proved to be the outstanding match of the evening. Both men were defending a 12 match winning streak.

Washington leading through the entire match by three points gained another three before bringing Grays winning streak to an abrupt halt with a pin.

The match between OU's Jim Barrington and Charlie Peters in the 177 weight division was the surprising match of the evening. Barrington winning it 2-0.

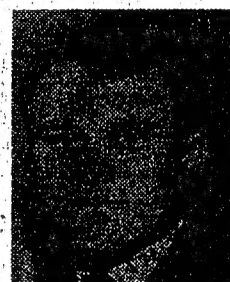

The results:

- 123 — Curlee Alexander, Omaha, defeated Terry Artman, 7-2.
- 130 — Jeff Meinke, Wayne, defeated Gary Krieger, 4-1.
- 137 — Ron Tope, Wayne, defeated Bill Myers, 5-3.
- 145 — Roy Washington, Omaha, pinned Rich Gray, 7:21.
- 152 — Reggie Williams, Omaha, defeated Steve Hanson, 7-3.
- 160 — Wendell Hakanson, Omaha, pinned Larry Michaelson, 6:57.
- 167 — Dave Matthias, Wayne, defeated Nick Modrcin, 7-1.
- 177 — Jim Barrington, Omaha, defeated Charlie Peters, 2-0.
- Hvy. — Bob Kruse, Wayne, defeated Tom Maides, 9-2.

At Ring Side

with

John Whisman

Revenge against Washburn ended the Indian three game losing skid and clinched a tie for the CIC crown between the Ichabods and the Indians.

Both clubs now have identical 5-2 conference records. The Indians travel to Emporia State for their final encounter of the season.

The Indians should win handily at Emporia if they get a fair shake from the referee and the fans.

Questionable Officiating

It seems as though controversial plays, poor sportsmanship and questionable officiating have plagued the OU cagers in their last three road games.

At Emporia, however, the Indians have always been treated fairly by both fans and officials. This along with the fact that the Indians usually play good at Emporia should add another notch to the victory column.

At Ft. Hays, the Indians lost by only two points, both free-throws. Against the Tigers, the Indians should either have won by one point or lost by one.

The personnel at the desk informed the Indians late in the final seconds that the one and one situation was not in effect.

However, when the Indians intentionally fouled the Tigers to sacrifice one free throw to get possession instead they lost two points.

The Tigers dropped the first charity shot and the one and one was as it turned out in effect.

Indians Blitzed by Fans

At Washburn the Ichabods blitzed the Indians 62-52. The fans also blitzed the OU players with everything but the bleachers they were sitting on.

Continued harrassment by the fans throwing paper airplanes, paper wads, drinking containers and pop bottles kept the Indians ducking continually.

Besides the debris throwing contest from the bleachers at Washburn, the officials were harrassed by the Ichabod fans.

When a call went against Washburn the band struck up "Three Blind Mice". These "bush" tactics are unbecoming to the school, the team, the fans and the band.

The officials at the February 14 encounter called a good game in spite of the treatment they were subjected too.

Free Throw Contest at Sioux City

Basketball is a game of shooting, dribbling, rebounding, screening and running as we all know. But at Sioux City the Morningside Maroons and the Indians had a free throw shooting contest.

The Maroons won because of their ability to cash in on 91 per cent of their charity shots. Morningside dropped 31 of 34 attempts at the free throw line.

OU hit a respectable 73 per cent from the charity line, but not the phenomenal amount amassed by the Maroons.

It appeared for a while as though Coach Jim Borsheim was going to have to check into the lineup. Three OU players left for one reason or another.

Dennis Browne and Jim Vincent left the game via the foul route. Freshman Jim Etter was ejected for fighting on what certainly turned out to be a controversial play.

The controversial call by the officials began while Etter was attempting to steal the ball from Maroon Ray Lill. Both players hit the deck and Lill came up swinging. Etter, however, popped Lill and both were ejected.

Cagers Double Fouls

In a game marred by 51 fouls, 27 at OU's expense, the officials must have worn out a whistle each half.

It's a bit surprising that the Indians could manage to almost double their fouls. Through 17 previous games OU had been averaging only 14 fouls per game.

But in the last ten minutes at Morningside the officials assessed 14 fouls against the Borsheim crew.

It's amazing how a team can travel to Sioux City and become so foul prone. Maybe the officials were setting a record for burning the 1+1 light in a college game.

Trackers Host Tri-Meet Tonight

Morningside and Yankton College will be entertained by the Omaha University track team tonight at 7 p.m. in the field-house.

"I don't know anything about Morningside but I do know that Yankton will be tough," said track mentor Lloyd Cardwell.

"They have a real good crop of middle distance and distance runners," he added.

Jim McMahon won the 600 an Robert Smiley won the 800 yard dash events in the meet last year and they will be out to duplicate their victories tonight.

Rick Carey will be available according to Cardwell but is still hampered by a bad leg.

Don Glasgow pulled up lame after the 60 yd dash in last week's meet and may not see action.

Hurdler Oscar Pulliam, a first year man is rounding into shape and is expected to add strength to the team.

Next Saturday the Indians will host their last indoor meet of the season in a 2 p.m. encounter with Ft. Hayes and South Dakota University.

Midland Dumps OU

The girls extramural basketball team ended its season Saturday with a loss to Midland College.

Little shooting was accomplished in the game as indicated by the 23 to 16 score.

Joan Edwards scored seven points in the third quarter bringing OU to within three points. Donni Linneman totaled six points throughout the game. Fouls handicapped the team from moving ahead.

WRA Coed Table Tennis Tournament is scheduled for March 2 at 7 p.m. in the west Quonset. Sign up sheets will be posted in front of the bookstore from February 27 until March 2. Four trophies will be awarded to the winners.

NW Bearcats Men's Track Meet; To Host OU Four Field Events

By Dan Parker

The Indian grapplers will travel to Northwest Missouri State to meet the Bearcats in a three p.m. match tomorrow.

Coach Jerry Landeer's squad were champions of the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association last year with a 12-1 record. The 'Cats also placed in the NCAA Small College tourney.

Spiced by 145 pounder Doug Rex and 152 pound Ron James, the Bearcats now have a respectable 10-3 slate, and are leading the NIAA.

Coach Don Benning says that injured Tom Ruffino and Rich Coleman will not be ready for Northwest Missouri, but should be back in form for Emporia State on February 28.

OU Loses Second

The University of Omaha wrestlers dropped their second match of the year to Fort Hays State 17-16 last Friday.

Ray Washington won his twelfth straight match for OU in romping over Bill Ramsey 12-3 at 152 pounds.

Indian Reggie Williams literally mauled Jesse Barnes 11-1.

By Norm Tweedy

Intramurally speaking the indoor track Tuesday, Feb. 23 seems to be the topic of conversation.

Any student carrying six or more hours is eligible to participate in any four field events, however only experienced pole vaulters will be permitted to enter the pole vaulting competition. All entries will be accepted just before each event.

Although no spikes will be permitted in the running events except in the 60 yard low hurdles, spikes will be permitted in the field events.

The order of the running events will be:

1. 60 yard dash preliminary
2. 60 yard low hurdles preliminary
3. Mile run
4. 60 yard low hurdle finals
5. 60 yard dash finals
6. 440 yard dash
7. 880 yard run
8. Mile relay

The winning team will be awarded a trophy.

Last year eight out of 10 records were met or broken. The new Intramural indoor track meet records are:

'Image Survey' Shows Many For State Aid

By Dave Decker

Two-thirds of the Omahans interviewed in a Sociology survey favor obtaining state aid for the University of Omaha.

Five hundred persons in twenty selected precincts were interviewed.

Jerry Nanos, survey analyst from OU, said 10 precincts were selected which gave the lowest voter support for the mill levy increase proposal and 10 which gave the highest.

"Using this means we're assured of a fairly representative sampling," he said.

Most Favor Aid

Of the 500 persons questioned, nearly two-thirds feel OU should become a state university or receive state aid.

"This response may indicate why a majority of the citizens failed to support the mill levy vote last spring," the OU senior said.

"The Image of the University of Omaha" survey is the product of "Class in the Community," a division of the Sociology department.

Nanos and his associate, Kieth Engbrecht, felt this topic was a possible means of discovering the community's feelings toward the University.

"We are fairly certain the results of the survey reflect the feelings of the majority of Omaha's population," Nanos said. "We conducted the survey in such a manner that we got a good cross section of the population."

500 Interviewed

Nanos said ten, two-member teams conducted a total of 500 random interviews in 20 of the city's 281 precincts.

"Other members of the class did the footwork," he said. "We compiled the survey information and issued the results."

Nanos noted several "significant relationships" when the top three and the bottom precincts were compared.

—The precincts giving lowest mill levy support were of a lower than average income.

—Of those who voted against the mill levy, a majority owned their own homes.

—The lowest mill levy support precincts contained high percentages of foreign-born citizens.

—One of the highest supporting precincts was located on the near north side.

Many Concerned

Nanos and Engbrecht compiled 10 general analytical statements which reflect the general opinion of the citizens of Omaha in areas of the survey.

Those interviewed indicated:

1. That they are in agreement a high school education is not sufficient today. And feel the community should provide higher education.
2. They are satisfied that the currently available educational opportunities are adequate.
3. That those who claim to have had most association with OU yielded least support for the mill levy.

4. That nearly four-fifths indicate that OU is very useful to the community.

5. That nearly 40 per cent showed concern over what closing the university would mean to higher education here.

6. About half said the taxpayer should provide half or more of the cost of education.

7. Responses showed that a majority would rather eliminate those least likely to succeed rather than by cutting non-residents or bootstrappers.

8. There is a 2 to 1 support for establishing a junior college.

9. That the majority of those interviewed said their taxes were too high and were obviously unwilling to vote for a mill levy increase.

10. That in light of the actual returns of the election, those who failed to answer probably voted against the mill levy.

"We find through the results of the inquiry," Nanos stated, "that the citizens of Omaha have a favorable image of the University of Omaha."

"The large majority of citizens have had some direct or indirect association with the University of Omaha which has been positive," Nanos contends.

"Any criticisms, other than cost were exceedingly rare and many of those interviewed expressed approval and concern for the future of the university," he concluded.

Committees Make Plans For Semester

The Student Center committees have a full calendar of activities planned.

The Special Events committee sponsored the OU Scholastic Bowl. The first round of the tournament was held Febr. 20, followed by the semi-finals and finals Febr. 23.

As of press time, Alpha Xi Delta beat Pi Kappa Alpha in the first round. Phi Alpha Chi out-scored Sigma Phi Epsilon and Chi Omega beat Lambda Chi Alpha. The Equivocators also dunked Theta Chi in the first round.

Scholastic Bowl

The final winning team will have a permanent engraved plaque on display in the Student Center.

The winners will also be presented with a trophy with a silver bowl for the organization. If a team of individuals wins, each will receive an engraved silver bowl.

The committee is considering giving semester winners a chance to play the "varsity" team from the television College Bowl.

OU will have a Night Club Mar. 13, 14, 15 and 16. A New York group will provide two floor shows a night. Activity card admits. The only expense will be refreshments.

The Exhibits committee is showing a satellite communications exhibit from Western Electric. No date has been set yet. Educational exhibits are planned for the '67 - '68 school year.

Activity Calendar

The Calendar and Communications committee put out the activity calendar for the semester. It is available for ten cents in the book store and at the information desk. Next year's calendar is being compiled now.

The Recreation committee is sponsoring bridge and pool tournaments in the Student Center game room.

An open bowling party will be held every Friday night at greatly reduced prices for all students.

The House and Grounds is considering special bulletin boards. Each organization registered on campus may have a small private bulletin board for communicating with members.

Best Dressed Chosen

Rick Eastman, Vern Johnson, and Darrell Seidler were chosen as the best dressed men on campus by an all school vote.

The election took place in the Student Center January 28, and was sponsored by Esquire magazine.

Last week the three were interviewed by Esquire. Purpose of the interview was to select one of the three to represent the magazine on campus next fall.

Rick Eastman, a sophomore, was selected. He will leave for New York March 5, to participate in a fashion show sponsored by Esquire. He will appear in the September issue of Esquire, and will receive a complete wardrobe.

Upon his return from New York, Rick will work with Brandeis, co-ordinating college men's fashions.

Rick is in the college of Liberal Arts, and is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity.

Greeks Start Their Week

Greek Week, an annual event sponsored by IFC and Panhellenic Council, will be held March 3 to the 10th.

The week will start with a dance in the Student Center March 3. Admission for the 9-12 event is one Greek card per couple.

The Greek Week project is planned for March 4. The Greeks will bring about 100 underprivileged fourth through sixth graders to the campus. They will attend a movie, then have lunch.

Angel Competes For 'Lil' Colonel

The Angels will be behind Paula Maggamin when she goes for the title of Little Colonel at the area conclave in Lincoln, Nebraska this weekend. Or at least the OU Angels will be.

Paula was selected to represent this campus in the conclave contest by members of Angel Flight and the Arnold Air Society. She will be competing with Angels representing other chapters. The winner will be elected by the delegates from eight campus squadrons.

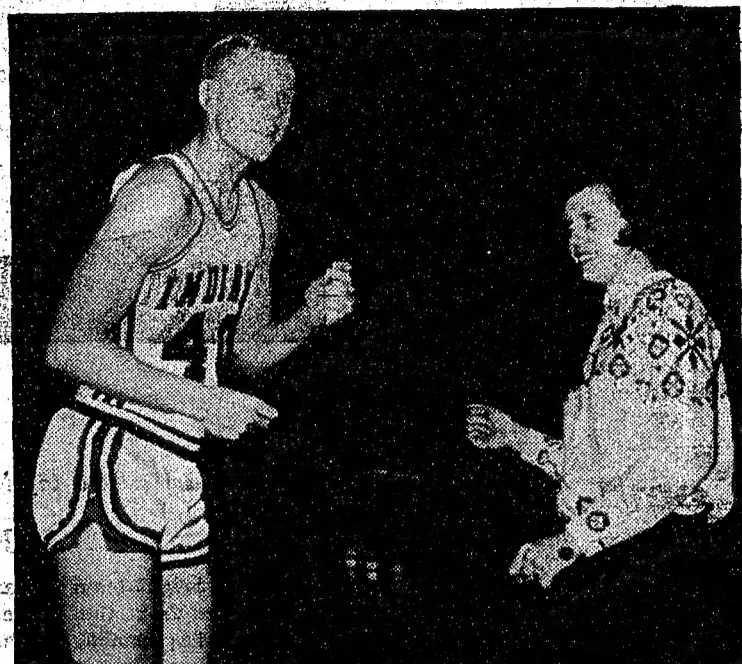

Bill Poff has been selected delegate for OU. Rick Martin will attend as an alternate.

Angels Recruit

Coeds—Would you like to be an Angel?

Then plan now to attend the coffee hour in room 312 A and B in the Student Center at 4:00 p.m. March 3. Application blanks for Angel Flight, women's honorary auxiliary to the AFROTC Arnold Air Society, will be distributed by Flight members at the coffee hour. This is the only time the applications will be made available.

Angel Flight membership is selective. Besides completing the application form a coed must have a 2.25 accumulative grade average and the recommendation of a member of the Arnold Air Society.

OUampi Week Ends Swinging

OUampi Week ends tomorrow night with a sock hop in the field house after the basketball game. Dick Osterhaus and Sherry Anderson test the court for its "swing."

Half-price to college students and faculty:
the newspaper that newspaper people read...

At last count, we had more than 3,800 newspaper editors on our list of subscribers to The Christian Science Monitor. Editors from all over the world.

There is a good reason why these "pros" read the Monitor: the Monitor is the world's only daily international newspaper. Unlike local papers, the Monitor focuses exclusively on world news — the important news.

The Monitor selects the news it considers most significant and reports it, interprets it, analyzes it — in depth. It takes you further into the news than any local paper can.

If this is the kind of paper you would like to be reading, we will send it to you right away at half the regular price of $24.00 a year.

Clip the coupon. Find out why newspapermen themselves read the Monitor — and why they invariably name it as one of the five best papers in the world.

Scene: A small NBC television studio somewhere in New York City.

Time: 5:30 EST, Sunday, Febr. 19, 1967.

Part I '...battle of brains...'

Announcer: The following program is brought to you in living color.

The NBC peacock unfolds her rainbow-hued plumes.

Annrc: Match wits with the champions in America's favorite question-and-answer game. Live from New York City, the inter-collegiate battle of brains, now in its ninth season, the award-winning G. E. College Bowl presenting outstanding varsity scholars throughout America.

Today's contest brings together this bright team of varsity scholars from the University of Omaha; Omaha, Nebraska, and our current champions, the varsity scholars from the University of Texas at Austin.

And now the man with the questions... Robert Earl (Applause)

Earl: First here are the challengers, the varsity scholars from the University of Omaha.

Johnson: Gary Johnson; Omaha, Nebraska.

Webster: Jerry Webster;

Montgomery, Alabama.

Cohen: Marcia Cohen; Omaha, Nebraska.

Reisser: Craig Reisser; Omaha, Nebraska.

Earl (exclaims): That's the University of Omaha.

(Now more relaxed mood) And our current champions back for their second game, the varsity scholars from the University of Texas.

Carroll: Barbara Carroll; Austin, Texas.

Edwards: Tom Edwards; Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Clark: Carl Clark; Richardson, Texas.

Taylor: Buford Taylor; Phoenix, Arizona.

Earl: And that's the team from the University of Texas.

Now I want you to meet the coaches. First, from the University of Omaha, here is assistant professor of speech and drama, Dr. Don Manson... (applause)... Dr. Manson.

And from Texas, here is doctor of philosophy Dr. Douglas

Morgan... (applause).

Manson determinately shakes Morgan's outstretched hand.

Earl: As you know, each week the winning school receives a $1,500 scholarship grant from the General Electric Company and returns to defend its title. And the runnerup school receives a $500 scholarship grant.

Our game begins directly after this message...

COMMERCIAL

"Robert Earl winks," relates Marcia.

Part II '...vacuum tubes warmed up...'

(Whistle)

Earl: All right teams, there's the whistle to start the game. You're playing for a 30-point bonus question.

Here's your first tossup. For 10 points, who was the 19th century American who is frequently quoted as having asserted that every three score of seconds witnesses the nascence of the person who is (BELL)...

Annrc: Texas, Taylor.

Taylor: P. T. Barnum, there's a sucker born every minute.

Earl: That's right, P. T. Barnum said it (applause).

Earl: For 10 points, if you were a philosopher, according to the title of this music would you be a skeptic, a rationalist, or a nominalist...

The music plays, the Univac's tubes become charged and after the first six notes... BELL.

Annrc: Texas, Carroll

Carroll: A skeptic.

Earl (excitedly): A skeptic,

yes, "It Ain't Necessarily So" (applause).

"I didn't think her Barbara's vacuum tubes warmed up in the practice session," Craig thought.

Barbara answers two of the next three questions. After missing seven bonus questions, Texas leads 140 to 0.

"I could see their (OU's) tenseness," remarked Coach Manson.

Earl: At 12 he heard the crowing of the cock and the barking of the farmer's dog. At one, he saw the meetingshouse windows, blank and bare (BELL)

Annrc: Omaha, Reisser.

Reisser: Paul Revere.

Earl: Paul Revere, yes.

The OU team correctly answered two of three bonus questions regarding T. S. Eliot's poetry. Marcia gasped after missing "Ash Wednesday."

Texas continues on the scoring trail by grabbing 50 more points.

Earl: I have a 30-pointer coming up (WHISTLE) there's the whistle to end the first half and the score is...

Annrc: University of Omaha, 30; University of Texas, 200.

Earl: In just a moment, we will take time out to talk to the teams...

COMMERCIAL

"Earl came over and gave us encouragement," recalls Reisser.

Part III '...a vacuum that recedes...'

Earl: To tell about the University of Omaha here is Captain Jerry Webster.

During the warmups under the bright lights, Jerry's contacts gave him trouble. "He almost went blind. He must have abraded his cornea," Marcia remarked.

Webster (in pain and without his contacts): Thank you, Mr. Earl...

(Roll Color Film)

"It was the loneliest feeling in the world. It was like talking into a vacuum that recedes before you," Jerry later described.

... Omaha University is a pragmatic school as envisioned in its motto: "To earn a living and lead a cultured life, not as two processes, but as one."

Earl: All right there's a brief (applause) look... University of Omaha... (continued applause)... thank you, Jerry.

Now let's find out some more about this team from the University of Texas.

Carroll: I'm a senior and next year I plan to go to medical school where I will study (not only medicine, but hopefully law in the process of getting a legal-medical degree.

Edwards: I'm a sophomore majoring in sociology...

Clark: I'm a sophomore majoring in English and philosophy...

Taylor: I'm a junior, Mr. Earl, majoring in government.

(WHISTLE)

Part IV '...an ape, two-part stick and a banana...'

Earl: And there's the whistle to start the second half.

Teams, as you know, the next time that whistle blows, the game is over.

Earl reads the first question (BELL)...

Annrc: Omaha, Cohen.

Cohen: Guy de Maupassant.

Earl: That's right.

During the three bonus questions that follow, Johnson mumbles, "I don't have any... idea."

Earl (giving the answer to the third): The more common name is the common cold (laughter both from stage and audience). I know.

Jerry answers a tossup, but pleads with his teammates: "Does anyone have an idea" as they miss three music bonuses.

Earl: The English translation of this picture (picture unveiled slowly) is "When Come We, What Are We (BELL).

Annrc: Omaha, Cohen.

Cohen: That is by Gauguin.

Earl: Yes.

During one of the four dates asked for bonus...

Earl: How about in Hebraic history the Day of Atonement?

Cohen: That's...

Suddenly Gary snapped out of a catatonic trance which lasted for 15 minutes...

Johnson: Yom Kippur

Earl (surprised): Yes, that's right.

The score at this point is OU 85, Texas 200.

Then Taylor and Edwards each rack up a tossup.

Earl: For 10 points, what gastropod does a Gaelic gastropod li (BELL) ke with garlic?

Annrc: Texas, Carroll.

Carroll: A snail.

We were hitting the buzzer about one-tenth of a second behind Texas," Jerry related.

Next tossup...

Earl: If you drop some strong laundry soap chips into a weak solution of phenolphthalein and st (BELL) ir...

Annrc: Texas, Taylor.

Taylor: It turns red.

Earl: What color will it turn is red, yes, that's right.

The seconds tick ominously away...

Earl: With what experimental psychologist do you associate an ape, a two-part stick and a banana... (BELL).

Annrc: Omaha, Cohen.

Cohen: Thorndike.

Earl: No, can you take it Texas, (BELL)

Annrc: Texas, Taylor.

Taylor: Jung.

Earl: No it's Kohler. (WHISTLE)

That's it, time's up. The game is over. (YELLING) We'll evaluate the score and announce the winner and award the scholarship grants.

COMMERCIAL

Earl: It's official. The final score is the University of Omaha, 125; University of Texas, 375. Texas is the winner.

And, teams, congratulations on a good game.

Craig's post-mortem comment: "There are not too many teams in the world who will wheel a computer into the studio."
